The e-mail read, "Dear Attorney General, This is [redacted] here. I know you know who I am. I am supposed to be in Centre County Court in front of a magistrate on 10/8/03. The reason I am writing you is because I was convicted in Cambria County on 10/98. Recently a bullet was shot through the Centre County Commissioner's window. This was done, i'm sure, by one of that cock sucker Murthas goons. It was meant as a threat and intimidation to prosecute me for something that isn't even a crime. He wants to make a mountain out of a mole hill. A few days later i got a letter telling me I'm being charged.

Now they want me to travel about a hundred miles with no transportation to Bellfonte to answer these bogus charges. With snipers runnin around. I guess I'll try to get there but I will also try to be armed. Then we can all have a shoot out. After all I don't expect you or any other pussy in Harrisburgh to defend my life or my rights.

You people bowed down to a traitor, terrorist, and murderer in Murtha. That makes you people traitors, and tools of oppression by a tyrant. I will always protect and defend the constitution of the United States. By any means necessary. Even if I have to kill traitors, terrorists, and murderers like Murtha and you pussys in Harrisburgh.

Man who threatened Murtha gets his probation extended

By SANDRA K. REABUCK
TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT EBENSBURG BUREAU

EBENSBURG - A Johnstown man convicted five years ago of making terroristic threats about U.S. Rep. John P. Murtha and others, was found guilty yesterday of violating his probation by allegedly making new threats.

Donald L. Fenton, 56, was placed on an additional 23 months probation by Judge Thomas Swope because of new criminal charges against him in Centre County.

Swope directed that Fenton will remain in the county jail until he can be admitted to Pittsburgh VA Centre County warrant.

Hospital for a mental evaluation and exam.

George Stiles, a county probation officer, told Swope that Fenton is accused of sending a threatening e-mail to a woman working in a grant program in State College.

Stiles reported that police found several weapons - including a 15-inch survival knife and a pellet gun - along with a marijuana pipe, in Fen-tton, obviously agitated, begged the judge to "show me justice, especially if the courts wouldn't protect you. I have not committed a crime. I'm allowed to defend myself."

He complained to Swope that Murtha, D-Johnstown, was at the heart of his troubles.

He also talked about murder plots against him and his daily fear of being killed.

Threat-maker back behind bars

By SUSAN EVANS
THE TRIBUNE-DEMOCRAT

EBENSBURG - The man convicted of terroristic threats and barred from contact with U.S. Rep. John Murtha, D-Johnstown, The Tribune-Democrat and others, is in jail, charged with violating his probation.

Donald L. Fenton, 56, of Geistown has been sent to Cambria County Jail and may face new criminal charges, court papers show.

The new charges may not be connected to anyone in this region.

In 1998, Fenton was sentenced to five years' probation on the terroristic threats conviction, which stemmed from threats to Murtha and calls to Randy Leventry about problems with the repair of Fenton's truck and insurance coverage on the repair.

Fenton threatened to "blow the (expletive) head off" of Murtha and one of his aides, court testimony showed.

Judge Thomas Swope placed Fenton on probation for 60 months and ordered him not to have any contact with Murtha, The Tribune-Democrat and its employees, Leventry or the auto dealership where Fenton's truck was repaired.

Fenton also was required to undergo a mental evaluation and anger management counseling and follow recommendations.

Fenton failed to comply with orders about not displaying overt behavior and other conditions, said papers filed by the county Probation Office. Those papers also refer to "new criminal charges," but do not specify what they are, or the incident from which they stem.

"We can't release that information as of yet. But it has nothing to do with this area," said a probation office employee, who declined further comment in a telephone interview.

Murtha aide Brad Clemenson said he was not authorized to comment on Fenton's most recent arrest.

Even Fenton's attorney was in the dark.

"I haven't heard any of this until now," said public defender Richard Corcoran, who represented Fenton in his 1998 trial and appeals.

"It would be up to Mr. Fenton to contact me," Corcoran said in a telephone interview from his Ebensburg law office.

In the past, Corcoran has said Fenton was disappointed with his probation conditions, especially not being able to write to The Tribune-Democrat, a condition he thinks violates his free-speech rights.

State Superior Court disagreed when Fenton appealed, saying: "Writing one's congressman or newspaper and expressing one's displeasure with the current political system is one thing, contacting such officials after one has credibly and categorically threatened their lives is another."

Swope scheduled a Nov. 13 hearing on the probation violation charges. Fenton will remain jailed until then.
